INTO ITS OWN!

Starched shirts and silk hats made a good showing during the royal visit, but all of that is past and we are prepared to concentrate ourselves in such a respectable and edifying manner. We can now form one thing about the visit of the King and Queen, and that is the satisfaction of knowing that Their Majesties could eat with relish, and mustard, an honest-to-goodness hot dog. It is comforting to feel that the space between royalty and common folks isn't so great that the lowly frankfurter can't bridge the gap.

These are the days of family and church picnics, family reunions and ice cream sales. There will be found the American hot dog at the typically American scene. As you eat and a group of friends, give a thought what it means to be Most Excellent Citizens ahead of His Highness. You have a mouthful of beans and meat to be drinking beer over your bib, but what a nice sort of life this is! Let's enjoy your picnic and we bat the crowned heads listed there at Hyde Park, too. The only thing that puzzles us is why they only ate one apiece. And another thing, if wouldn't surprise folks to find some company putting a frankfurter on the market stamped with a coat of arms as a trade mark and "By Appointment to His Royal Highness" stenciled on each hot dog. That is advertising.

AIRWAY

"Air ye going my son?" The young fellow who has been planning to take to the road this summer and hoping to go places and see things by "bumming" has been given a word of advice from Jeff Davis, the King of His Hoods. He warns that already there are about 20,000 youngsters on the road and an unexpected 50,000 by July. The odd jobs to be found are scarce and the risk of hunger, jail and association with criminals is common. Folks will do their best to keep their young off the road for such travelling is apt to produce trouble and sorrow. It is too often that the paths aren't straight.

A NEW WRINKLE!

There are some women who never take an interest in affairs other than those around their home and village. Some say they are too busy to read. But there will be all of these souls aroused when they discuss and make a ferocious attack on Mr. Hitler's latest edict. He feels the lack of manpower wasted in the manufacture of cosmetics and demands a 90 percent reduced production. This goes far after telling the ladies to have babies, do without bread, join the army. Something will make our women folks interested in international affairs and this is it! When you place a ban on beauty preparations, "then's fightin' words, Muster".

TALKING OF TURKEY

It was just last summer that we wrote about the work they were doing on the watermelon to make it the right size to fit in a family ice-box. Some fellows were experimenting and had developed a fruit that was about the size of a cantaloupe and could be stored easily. Things are moving mighty fast and you have to keep on your toes.

In the old days this was a country of big families and larger appetites. Turkeys had to be big to secure a place on a Thanksgiving dining table there. Forty-pounders were commonplace. But today the Department of Agriculture is working hard to produce a turkey that will be small enough to fit the small pans in the small ovens of the small families with the small incomes. Come Thanksgiving we may be surprised.

SCULLEN SPEAKS

WEATHER

J. F. Scullen was the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the West Palm Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel George, Washington Monday. Mr. Scullen, who was introduced as the president of the club as the president of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, cited the improvements being sought for Belle Glade by its chamber. He mentioned modern highways, a bank, better, more facilities, freight rates and promotion of the sugar industry. M. U. Mounts, county agent, supported Mr. Scullen's statements and urged support of year-around agriculture in the Everglades.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

Well, folks, after drivin' twelve hundred miles and standin' round for hours gettin' my credentials and press badge fixed up and figurin' out what to talk about the whole four days you slyng come Old Mama Nature and slaps me down with a mess of tonsilts that runs my temperature up to a hundred and three before I even know it. Now I'm not even knowin' if it or not. I got in on about three hours of the convention before all this happened to me, and since then my mental and physical condition hasn't been good at all. I should have given the old folks the United States Treasury gathered 'em in a concentration camp to be boiled in oil—and either way it wouldn't have meant a thing to you young'uns.

I've had two doctors, workin' over me for the last four days ticklin' my tonsils with different kinds of bug juice, spraying them with ether, and all the rest. The old folks had the United States Treasury gathered 'em in a concentration camp to be boiled in oil—and either way it wouldn't have meant a thing to you young'uns.

But you don't care about my luck, so I'll describe what I can remember of that eventful first day of the National Townsend Conference. It opened, you know, on Thursday morning. Tuesday and Wednesday the Townspeople came by special trains, by buses, in gigantic motorcades, one being over twelve miles in length, which started in Miami and ended in Pahokee, picked up from all over the country and from as distant points as Washington and California.

In spite of the fact the Civic Auditorium has a seating capacity of 12,000, long before the opening session began the auditorium was packed and over 2,000 remained outside the doors, unable to gain admission.

The popularity of Doctor Towns was evidenced when, early on the second day, the audience responded with a standing ovation to his address. The audience was wild in the great auditorium rising to their feet to scream a welcome. Later, during his talk, when he offered to step down and make way for any other speaker, the audience insisted he stay. The response was that he was better qualified than himself, the response was a thunderous "NO".

Into every congressional district the Sembler and Compton bill failed to vote for the Townsend send bill, will be sent Townsend Trail Blazers whose task it will be to organize the territory so as to insure the defeat of the offending office holder—but mean the certain election of his opponent.

Florida was well represented with several hundred delegates from all over the state while political contestants on par with those of most other states. Highlights of the opening day that lingers in my fervent memory are: Polk Rose trumpet band, the Palm Beach girls, Burton Schoepf and Jerry Allen working themselves into a team members of the Resolutions Committee; Raymond and Mrs. Townsend, who are staying at the hotel—without John, John S. Burks; Mrs. Schopf sailing around with Mrs. Townsend; Ross Allen showing movies to the old timers; pretty girls passing Florida 1939—youth and elegance. Tom Girdor checks 'em in. G. C. Towns taking a bow; George Scudier just among 'em lookin' the situation over; and many others.

This convention was a "HOT" one. The weather was perfect. Indiana sun burned down all four days, and the delegates were wrapped in a blanket of heat, while breathing a labor of the first magnitude. Believe me, it will be a pleasure for us Floridians to get back to our good old "air conditioned" Florida.

The temperature those astrotococci geeks gave me was nothing more than compensation to the temperature by a few histrionics who wanted to throw the Doctor out on his ear and take over control. The reverend provided a statement demanding that Dr. Townsend and his son, Robert, or perpetually control of the cause and threatening the formation of an independent old age pension organization. The reverend appreciated this threat by adopting a resolution providing for the assumption of leadership by Mr. Robert in the event Dr. Townsend should die or become unable to serve.

At the close of the meeting 12,000 men and women left their homes in every part of the nation. These folks are filled with a fervent desire to make new converts to their creed. In their march will be millions of people waiting for their reports and ready to respond with action. Those politicians who have used the "movement" for a handwaggon upon which to ride into office are in for a hot time themselves when they come up for re-election. At the same time the "faithful" will receive their reward—and that reward is the presidential nomination.

EVERYBODY GETS A LICENSE

Although the state's new drivers license law is open to the objections of many, it is a good law for all present drivers without requiring any qualification other than the ability to cough up 50 cents, it is about the only feasible way of getting the public to bring their cars to the inspection stations. It was necessary to begin by giving everybody a license because with only 60 men in the new patrol it would take them only a year and a half to examine the estimated 1,000,000 persons now driving motor cars in Florida. By the end of that time they undoubtedly would suspect the groundlings, those who shouldn't be allowed to drive an automobile but in the meantime there would be nobody out checking up the roads and accidents would probably be as numerous as ever.

It was decided that a better way would be to start everybody out with a license, on the ground that in a large majority of cases experience had made them good drivers. They would then be checked up largely through being involved in accidents or through violations of traffic rules. While this method would be slow, it would be safe.

The national safety council is authority for the information that this has been the method adopted by the majority of states. A drivers license law is in effect. The reason is the same that confronted the Florida sponsors—because of the tremendous administrative task involved in giving the examination and giving everybody a license as of a given date—in Florida it will probably be Oct. 1—and after that an examination of all applicants was required.

The difficulty in Florida will be in working out an examination schedule. It takes two men about 15 minutes to put a driver through the paces and with the force of 60 men and 60 members this would only 30 examinations until when allowance is made for the necessity of giving more attention to the big centers of population than to average a unit to every town of 10,000 population.

These details will no doubt be worked out satisfactorily. All concerned with the matter seem to be approaching it with the proper spirit. There was some disappointment with the decision to delay putting the law into effect until the license fees come in next October but the road department which shares super-visory responsibility with the governor, is taking advantage of this interval to recruit and train apprentices and have other details ready when the time comes to go to work. — Fort Myers News-Press.

Claims Are Filed In Island Suits

Members of the Island Growers Association are awaiting outcome of the first of a series of suits and involving claims made by Ross and Gertrude Winnie of Torrey Island.

Two of the claims have been filed in the circuit court at Wellington, Fla., by growers. Tooley, Ritter, Kraemer and Little Kraemer Islands for alleged crop losses during the seasons of 1934 to 1935 because of high water artificially raised by the like, and flood gate control.

Summer Program—

Malcolm Millar, the enterprising, exuberant and effervescent advertising director of the Gladbow enterprises, (i.e. the Prince and Everglades Theatres) had a delightful scheme two weeks ago. The epic saga "Stagecoach" promised to be the celluloid attraction at the local movie houses. The picture, however, did not last long and Mal spent hours in whipping up the real "brain child" into shape.

When fully completed, after hours of arduous labor, Millar's little "Stagecoach" was built and made-and-motion trucks took on the appearance of a stagecoach with a tall piece of background showing Indians and rugged scenery and extending the clearance of a motor machine to a dangerous height.

Now, there is an underpass at the Florida East Coast railway tracks in Belle Glade at a point between the Main street bridge and the northern end of the town, just south of the canal. Well, to make a tall story short, Mal did not make it and the tall story really was short! Western experts were summoned and stagecoach drivers were hired in a wide area under the underpass.

When the contraption smashed itself into bits, Mal instinctively reached up and grabbed his own feet to see if it too had been scraped in the smash-up.

Scullen Reports

The outcome for favorable freight rate adjustment is not bright," said Mr. Scullen, "but action on the sugar cane quota is expected to be favorable to the sugar industry." Andrew and Representative Cannon have both introduced sugar legislation bills and are described as "companions in crime."

An arrangement was made of the arrival of Representative Cannon at 5:10 p. m., Tuesday, at the West Palm Beach airport. Arrangements were made for a local delegation to meet him at the airport and escort him to Clewiston where he was a participant in the Department of Agriculture's hearing there on sugar cane quota.

Mr. Scullen will go to the town commission of Belle Glade.
